BASKET-BALL HAS THE CALL

Army and Navy Preps Plan to Put Good Football Eleven in Field. Washington School for Boys and Friends Will Go In for Basketball, Track, and Baseball.

Never before in the history of preparatory schools in the District has there been such enthusiasm over all branches of athletics as at present. Probably the foremost among them is the Army and Navy Preps, who will devote special attention to the pigskin. The next school is the Washington School for Boys, which will not only have a good basketball quint, but will be well represented on the track and on the diamond. Third on the list is the Friends School, where "school spirit" reigns at a high pitch, and does much toward boosting athletics. The University School will also be well represented in basket-ball, the team consisting of almost all of last year's men.

The Army and Navy Preps will lead on the gridiron, as all efforts are being centered on this sport. Prospects for a good football team are the brightest in years, and from present indications the school will be represented by the heaviest and strongest eleven in its history, averaging 170 pounds.

Prospects Are Good.

Every member of the team is big and husky, and with the valuable services of Coach Frank E. Newberry should certainly have a most successful football campaign. A captain and manager will be elected this week.

I. W. De Mott, who has been in charge during the past week in the absence of Coach Newberry, has had the boys working hard in preparation for the first game of the season with Westen High School, on Tuesday at 3 o'clock. Those in charge have secured the American League Park for the season.

"Skinny" Metzgar, the largest boy on the eleven, weighing 225 pounds, and Stephan, the smallest one, are the only veterans of last year's team, the former being at left guard and the latter at

A Training Table.

A new feature in the school is the addition of a training table, which was started last week. This was the boys' idea, and so far has proved a big success. Out in Tennallytown the boys of the Washington School are taking interest in the various sports.

The suburbanites will not have a football team, but a large number of candidates, are out for the basket-ball squad, under Coach Richard Woodruff.

Manager Henry Sargent has completed one of the fullest programmes that the lads have ever attempted. Among his bookings are the Friends School, University School, Western and Business High

Those who are trying for the team are: W. Lockwood, Stone, Wilkins, and C. Lockwood, forwards; Sargent, Evans, and Beech, guards, and Hyde and Campbell, that has never been tried in any other institution, is the organization of an indoor baseball league, by Coach Jack Brookes, which has aroused much interest throughout the school.
